REPORT

On the fourth day of the shiksha saptah, Rayburn High School dedicated the day to celebrate the rich cultural heritage and diversity of India. The fourth day is more than a celebration in education but an essential tool for the promotion of diversity, global awareness, mutual respect, creativity, insight and community spirit.

The students are made to wear their own cultural shawl/scarf, each colour signifying the vibrant diversity and enrich culture and tradition. Students showcase their attire in awesome admiration of tradition and in celebration of the differences that unite different tribes and region.

The cultural Day further moves to 'Traditional tools exhibition'. In this exhibition, children in the foundational stage are introduced to the many agricultural tools such as 'Seng','Loh','Chiang' which are the different types of basket skillfully hand crafted by traditional craftsmen. This exhibition helps students to identify the tools and it further helps them to appreciate and celebrate the traditional craftsmanship. They are also introduced to the art of basket making. The dedicated teachers skillfully teach the students how to make small basket using waste paper. The students are able to acquire a new skill through this activity.

The cultural Day is also observed with a cultural dance where students are monitored and taught how to move their hands and feet along with the beat of a drum. This is one simple traditional dance showcased during any festival and gathering. Students are found to enjoy the beautiful tune and beat of the music while they learn a new traditional dance.

The cultural day celebration has truly nurtured and enriched the identity of the students and it has enabled students to appreciate and celebrate the cultural diversity that existed in the student community.
